

Terms of Use

Wednesday, August 30, 2006

Welcome to the website of the Center for New Community (CNC). Please take a minute to read the rules that follow and understand that, when you visit our site, it means that you agree to follow these terms and conditions. These terms may be modified or updated by us from time to time without notice to you. You can review the most current version of the Terms of Use at any time by clicking on this page. Please note that any personal information collected in connection with our site is governed by our Privacy Statement.

What This Site Contains

The CNC site presents comprehensive information about how the Center for New Community carries out its mission of building community, justice and equality. It includes the subsites for the Building Democracy Initiative, the Rural Pastors Institute, and the Turn It Down Campaign.

Use of Materials on This Website

The materials published on the site, including text, images, and illustrations (which we call the "Content"), are protected by copyrights, trademarks, service marks, and/or other proprietary rights and laws of the United States or other countries. You, a visitor to this site, acquire no rights or licenses to the Content other than the limited rights to use it in accordance with these terms, and you agree to abide by all posted copyright notices or restrictions relating to the Content. Except as provided in the next paragraph, you may not copy, reproduce, distribute, publish, display, perform, modify, create derivative works from, transmit, or in any way exploit any part of the Content.

You may download or copy the Content and other downloadable items displayed on the site for personal use only, provided that you keep intact all copyright and other notices contained therein. Copying or storing of any Content for purposes other than personal use is expressly prohibited without prior written permission from CNC or the copyright holder identified in the copyright notice contained in the Content. Any unauthorized use of the Content may violate copyright laws, trademark laws, the laws of privacy and publicity, and communications regulations and statutes.

Use of Comment System

We have created a comment system as a means for our members and visitors to share opinions and information on topics of interest. By signing in to a comment system the participant agrees to follow our procedures and engage in acceptable and appropriate behavior. By posting a message, you agree that you are solely responsible for its content and its accuracy, and you agree to indemnify CNC, its employees and agents and hold them harmless against any claims or liability arising out of such content, including, by way of example but not limitation, liability for breach of copyright, trademark or other intellectual property right, libel, invasion of privacy, or violation of confidentiality. CNC reserves the right to terminate your privilege to use the content system and to remove any infringing content of which we become aware or which, in our sole discretion, we determine to be inappropriate or objectionable. Likewise CNC is under no obligation to post any message submitted, and it is in our sole discretion to remove messages as we determine and to preserve them for any period of time.

Trademark Information

The Center for New Community name, the Rural Pastors Institute name, the Building Democracy Initiative name, the Turn It Down name, the phrase "building community, justice, and equality," the phrase "sustaining pastoral excellence" the phrase "defending civil & human rights," and the CNC and Turn it Down logos are protected trademarks and service marks of CNC. No use of these names or logo may be made without the express written consent of CNC. They are provided for personal, noncommercial use without right of reproduction.

Use of CNC Logo

The CNC logo is used to identify our organization, products, and activities. You cannot use the CNC logo without written permission, and only CNC can grant authorization for use of the logo.
